A University of the West Indies Student short that looks at a day in the life of some Caribbean Chickens.

«Where do White People go When the Long Weekend Comes?» de Powys Dewhurst – Animation - 7'56 – Canada – 2007
Delroy, an artistic 8 year old black child from a tiny seaside village in the Caribbean immigrates to a 'First World' inner city. He begins to wonder where his white friends disappear to for the holidays. His imagination comes alive as the film explores the black immigrant child's experience while celebrating cultural differences in a whimsical fantasy using a unique blend of simple animation, illustration, projection and live action.
